To Whom it May Concern:

River City Construction, LLC is currently working on the McLean County Law and Justice Center expansion project located in Bloomington, Illinois with Pauly Jail Building Company as our Detention Equipment Contracting (DEC) partner. For over thirty years, we have had a multitude of opportunities to partner with Pauly Jail on many successful corrections and justice related projects.

In all cases, River City Construction has found Pauly Jail to be superior in its approach to providing detention equipment contracting services, as well as design assist services for complex facilities in need of high security and safety considerations. Their vast knowledge of the justice industry, products, and security electronics systems provides clients and partners-alike with a sound mind that each facility is constructed with the utmost attention to craftsmanship, quality of products utilized, and a comprehensive understanding of the safety/security needs to effectively operate corrections facilities.

Most recently, in its role for the McLean County Law and Justice Center project, Pauly Jail's professional and focused processes, in addition to their management of the building's detention equipment and security electronics, have proven to be an excellent working relationship, one built on mutual trust. That trust has carried through to the entire project team, including the project Owner and lead Design Team, and River City Construction. Their proactive, teamwork-driven methodology is exemplified by the quality of their employees assigned to the project.

We would welcome the opportunity to work with Pauly Jail Building Company on any future Justice or Corrections focused projects. They are a true partner!

Sincerely,

RIVER CITY CONSTRUCTION, LLC
