To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to express my support for the Pauly Jail Building team. We are nearing the end of our jail building project here in Hendricks County and could not have asked for a better group of professionals to partner with than the folks at Pauly. Not only did we have an outstanding field superintendent in Gary Jenkins, but we also had the full support of their marketing and management team along the way.

Our county is very fast growing and sometimes just keeping up can be difficult. From the very beginning, their team has been easy to deal with, transparent, and professional. Even with all the challenges in today's world, we have been able to keep moving forward. They have kept our entire team in the loop and pay close attention to the details along the way. We will finish on time and under budget.

One of the best parts of this project for me has been the interest that their entire team, even their owner, took in our local history. Our current county museum started out as the county jail and was built in 1866. It still stands today and was built by Pauly Jail and the ancestors of the current owners. I wholeheartedly believe that our county made the best choice then and now. Please feel free to contact me for any questions or additional information.

Sincerely,

Brett A. Clark

Sheriff of Hendricks County Indiana
