Together we can.

The banner that hangs in the lobby of our agency says it all: "Together we can end domestic and sexual violence."

This year has confirmed the truth of that statement and the importance of community support. We've had our share of setbacks in the past 12 months as we've experienced a downturn in government grants and an uptick in client needs. We've responded to the first by making painful cuts to our budget, programs and staff. As for the second, we're proud to report that we've turned away no victims, even when it meant setting up cots in our halls to accommodate them.

Much credit goes to the community that rose to the challenge and helped fill the funding gap. Our annual golf tournament and holiday appeal letter generated record-setting support. In April our "Tips Day" at Texas Roadhouse was so successful that one nearby business released employees in waves to ease the standing-room-only turnout during the lunch hour. Alternatives emerged the winner of "Grant Madness" that pitted 25 nonprofit organizations against each other in a friendly competition in keeping with the college basketball tourney. At stake was a grant from the Madison County Community Foundation that went to the agency that attracted the most votes from the community.

On every level, corporations, small businesses, service clubs, churches and individuals devised creative ways to help us curb expenses and serve our clients.

- A team from Lowe's spent several days on our campus making general repairs and building a wonderful bus shelter for residents who depend on public transportation to travel to their jobs.
  - A&J Laundry assumed the enormous task of washing, drying, and folding our bed linens. Last year that amounted to 1,176 pounds of laundry!
  - Soroptimist International of Anderson, a longtime friend of our agency, created the "Jump Start Home Store" that provides necessities such as dishes and small appliances to residents leaving our shelter to move to independent housing.
  - A new friend, Professional Management Enterprises, helped keep our food and supply shelves stocked by spearheading corporate donation drives.
  - A group from Leadership Hancock County conducted a survey to learn how knowledgeable residents in that county are about domestic and sexual violence. As follow up, the Hancock County Community Foundation awarded us a grant to design a marketing plan to boost awareness of the issue.
  - As a summer project, Guerin High School teen, Spencer Lutz, collected new and gently used books and created a book fair where our families wandered the displays and made their choices. An exciting component of the event was entertainment provided by a professional storyteller.
  - Janet Ehle arrived each month with dozens of cupcakes to share with our families as after-dinner treats.
  - Last year Prairie Farms donated 664 gallons of milk and juice for the shelter.
  - The men incarcerated at the Correctional Industrial Facility in Pendleton utilized recycled art supplies to make colorful containers to hold our students' school supplies.
- An old expression states that a picture is worth a thousand words. For this year's annual report we offer a sampling of photos that illustrate the many ways our friends have helped us through a difficult year. Along with the photos go our heartfelt thanks. Once again you've proven that "together we can."
