Simple Spine Surgery?

There's no such thing.

And yet, we hear it time and time again: I send my "simple spine" one place but my complex cases go to a neurosurgeon.

Every spine surgery involves carefully working around delicate, inflamed nerves. When nerves are involved, a "simple spine" case can turn complex quickly.

Only neurosurgeons have the advanced training to effectively treat these fragile structures that are the root of your patient's pain.

Simple spine. Complex spine. Choose Goodman Campbell Brain and Spine for all your spine patient needs. We are your nervous system specialists, with nearly 30 neurosurgeons and 3 fellowship-trained interventional pain physicians to give your patients the most options for pain relief.

See You in Indy!

Welcome to the summer issue of IAFP's FrontLine Physician. As always, this issue offers updates important to Indiana family physicians, this time including a recap of issues related to your practice from this year's state legislative session, an update on coding Medicare preventive visits from Joy Newby and a preview of this year's Annual Convention at the Indianapolis Westin.

This issue also represents my last opportunity to share in FrontLine Physician as the president of the Academy. If you have ever considered participating more in the leadership of the organization, I can assure you that it is a very rewarding experience. Our board members, commission chairs, officers and past presidents are leaders from across the state, and, during my time as president, it has been a terrific comfort to know these people were there to support us. Our Academy staff is recognized by family medicine academies across the nation as leaders and innovators in how to best support an AAFP chapter. As it has been noted in these pages before, we are truly blessed to have the breadth of experience and insight reflected in our leaders.

This may be my last opportunity to share in this publication, but my job here is not over yet. Before handing the cromach of the president over to Dr. Schultz this July, I hope to see many of you at the Westin in downtown Indy for our Annual Convention, July 24-27. As in years past, our staff and the Commission on Education and CME have put together an exciting and relevant CME program and meeting. The business of the Academy will be reviewed and discussed at the All-Member Congress of Delegates on July 25 and 26. This year, we are happy to announce that we will be joined by AAFP President-elect Bob Wergin, MD, FAAFP, as well as author and thought-leader Peter Anderson, MD.

Finally, you and your family can enjoy Family Medicine Day at the Indianapolis Zoo on July 27. I hope your schedule will allow you to attend some or all of this year's event.

Finally, I'd like to thank the Academy for allowing me the opportunity to serve as your president this past year. At each turn, I have been impressed with the staff and membership of our state chapter, as well as the national organization. In addition, our emerging members — students, residents and new physicians — are impressive in their own rights, with new ideas and infectious enthusiasm. I hope you enjoy this issue of FrontLine Physician, and as always, we want to hear from you. Feel free to email me at president@in-afp.org, or contact the IAFP office.

Congratulations to Dr. Richard Feldman

Richard Feldman, MD, program director at St. Francis Family Medicine Residency Program in Indianapolis, has been named the recipient of the 2014 Nikitas J. Zervanos Outstanding Program Director Award.

This award is co-sponsored by the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP) and the Association of Family Medicine Residency Directors (AFMRD).

The award recognizes Dr. Feldman's contributions to the family medicine community and the organizations of family medicine, as well as his leadership and service as a mentor to residents, other program directors and family medicine teachers.

Dr. Feldman was recognized during the awards ceremony at the 2014 AFMRD meeting in Kansas City, Missouri. The IAFP congratulates Dr. Feldman on this achievement!

In Memoriam – Mallik Chaganti, MD

We were shocked and saddened to hear of the death of IAFP member Mallik Chaganti, MD, of Rensselaer, and two of his young children. They were involved in a motor vehicle accident in northwest Indiana in April.

Our thoughts and prayers go out to Dr. Chaganti's remaining family members and the members of his community, who will miss this popular family physician. Dr. Chaganti worked at the Clinic of Family Medicine in Rensselaer and was on the staff at Jasper County Hospital. He graduated from Andhra Medical College in India and completed his residency in Detroit.

2014 Prize-Winning Tar Wars® Poster

Tar Wars® is a tobacco-free education program for fourth- and fifth-grade students. The program is designed to teach kids about the short-term, image-based consequences of tobacco use; the cost associated with using tobacco products; and the advertising techniques used by the tobacco industry to market their products to youth. A follow-up poster contest is conducted at the school, state and national level to reinforce the Tar Wars® message.

Students can create and submit posters that feature a creative, positive, tobacco-free message for entry in local, state and national poster contests. 2014's Indiana poster winner was created by Gwendolyn Grimmer from Indian Creek Intermediate School in Trafalgar, Indiana. Congratulations, Gwendolyn!

Protein Powered by Dairy

Milk is a complete protein that contains all nine essential amino acids necessary to build, repair, and maintain muscle.

Both young and old use protein throughout the day to curb hunger, help control weight and preserve lean body muscle.

Dairy foods are important sources of calcium, and eight other essential nutrients for all age groups.

PROTEIN CONTENT

1 cup Milk	8-10g
1.5 oz Cheese	9-11g
½ cup Cottage Cheese	13g
6 oz Traditional Yogurt	5-7g

According to the Institute of Medicine, no matter the age, bodies should get 50-175 grams a day of protein (based on 2000 calories diet).

2014 Legislative Update

The Indiana General Assembly adjourned sine die on March 14, 2014, with members of the General Assembly returning home to their legislative districts — many of them preparing for re-election in November. This session was a “short,” non-budget session, meaning legislators did have to deal with state financing. While issues such as preschool vouchers, business tax cuts, mass transit and day care were at the forefront of discussion, several health-related matters will become law. All of the items on IAFP’s legislative agenda became law, and the IAFP was also able to encourage the tabling of issues that could negatively impact family medicine.

Regulating Prescribing

Notably, efforts to make tramadol a Schedule III drug were tabled this legislative session. During legislative hearings, IAFP expressed concern with moving too aggressively on regulating pain management. IAFP indicated general support of efforts to curb prescription drug abuse but noted that scheduling tramadol may have unintended consequences and lead to the under-treatment of pain. IAFP’s message resonated with members, and this language was shelved for the rest of the session.

Several legislative attempts to schedule or make ephedrine/pseudoephedrine legend drugs were unsuccessful. IAFP testified against these efforts. But it should be noted, this issue may be a hot topic during the 2015 session.

Public Health

Two bills backed by IAFP’s Commission on Legislation will become law. Senate Enrolled Act (SEA) 50 will prohibit a person less than 16 years old from using a tanning device at a tanning facility. SEA 245 will allow health care providers with prescriptive authority to prescribe auto-injectable epinephrine to a school or school district and allow certain individuals employed by the school to fill, store and administer the drug. The bill also provides civil immunity to the school employees and health care providers.

As introduced and backed by the attorney general’s office, SEA 408 would have set an inadequate clinical definition of neonatal abstinence syndrome (NAS) in Indiana law and would have mandated that hospitals screen and report instances of NAS without any mechanism for payment or reimbursement. During legislative discussions, providers educated legislators on the complexity of the NAS issue, and the legislation was scaled back to allow stakeholders the opportunity to review several important issues related to NAS and report to the General Assembly by November of this year. The workgroup will develop a standard clinical definition for NAS and a process for identifying NAS; identify the time and resources needed for hospitals to develop and implement NAS protocol; review existing and new data-reporting mechanisms; and identify whether payment methodologies exist, or are needed, for identifying and reporting NAS. Dr. Andy Shull is participating on the NAS workgroup on behalf of IAFP. We can expect legislation to result from the findings of this workgroup.

INSPECT Expansion

House Enrolled Act 1218 initially required all legend drugs to be reported into INSPECT by July 1, 2015. The legislation was modified and now requires the Professional Licensing Agency to study and report by October 1, 2014, on various issues relating to an INSPECT expansion. Among others, the issues include: the impact of including all legend drugs in INSPECT; an analysis of security concerns related to patient and provider privacy; and regulatory impact analysis and a fiscal impact analysis.

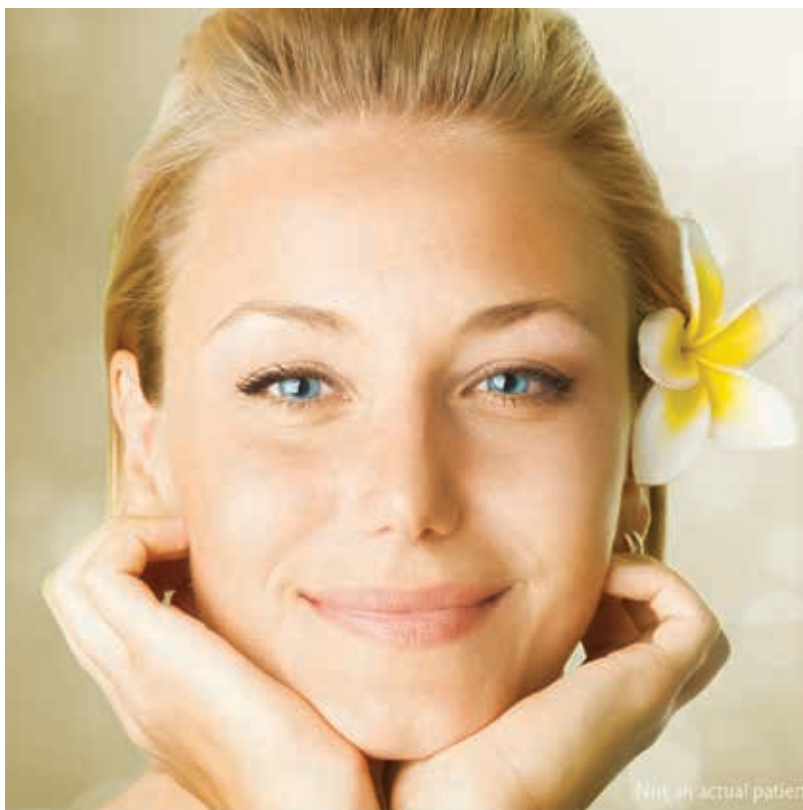

Health Care Delivery Reform

House Enrolled Act 1258 will require the Medical Licensing Board to establish a pilot program before August 1, 2014, for physicians to provide telehealth services to patients without an in-person patient/physician relationship. The MLB will set standards and procedures for physicians to follow when treating patients in the pilot program. IAFP has submitted an official request to the MLB seeking the opportunity to participate as a stakeholder in the discussions.

Scope of Practice

Senate Enrolled Act 233 will provide for the licensure of a new provider type — an anesthesiologist assistant (AA). In addition, this bill will provide licensure of diabetes educators and recognize certified registered nurse anesthetists (CRNAs) as advanced practice nurses. The MLB has solicited input from IAFP on the AA and diabetes educator regulations.

2014 IAFP Spring CME & Research

This year, the IAFP's popular Research Day took on a new format as we moved our focus on family medicine research to an afternoon-only program and offered some hot-topic CME in the morning. Over 120 IAFP members attended this event on May 8 at the Marriott North in Indianapolis.

Dr. Morhaf Al Achkar making his presentation during the morning CME session

Our morning session consisted of continuing medical education topics that had been rated Best-of-the-Best among the Indiana University School of Medicine's Department of Family Medicine's ongoing series of didactic topics. Presentation topics were: Abnormal Uterine Bleeding, Developmental Pediatrics in Primary Care, Hyperlipidemia Guideline Update and Hypertension Guideline Update. Presenting faculty members were Morhaf Al Achkar, MD; David Fryman, MD; Jeffrey

Kons, MD; and Bonnie Wong, MBBS. The IAFP is grateful to the Department of Family Medicine for its assistance and support of this event. Thank you to Dr. Carrie Anderson of Indianapolis for moderating the morning's CME program.

Our afternoon program consisted of the 2014 IAFP Research Day. IAFP members from across the state were invited to make 10- to 15-minute presentations and display posters detailing their original research projects and performance improvement initiatives. We also heard several case presentations about patients who have presented with unusual and/or rare diseases. A panel of judges awarded cash prizes at the end of the day. This year, we received a total of 28 abstracts from seven residency programs — up from 21 submissions last year. Thank you to Dr. Meg Wilson of Fort Wayne for moderating the afternoon's CME program.

Congratulations to our prize winners:

Meet the New IAFP Intern Kyle Knight

Kyle Knight is a junior studying political science and history with a business minor at Indiana University. He is interested in either studying law or becoming a teacher after finishing his undergraduate degree. Kyle has an older sister and brother-in-law, Kelly and JT Larson, and an older brother, Scott Knight, who interned last summer at the IAFP. Kyle's dad, Dr. Clif Knight, recently accepted a job with the AAFP, and his mother is currently finishing up her time with IPS, where she is an audiologist, before moving out to Kansas City. Kyle is excited to work with the IAFP this summer and plans to help make the Annual Convention the best one yet!

Confused About Medicare Preventive Visits? So Are Your Patients!

by Joy Newby, LPN, CPC, Newby Consulting, Inc.

Congress legislated coverage for two preventive visits for Medicare beneficiaries:

- Initial Preventive Physical Examination (IPPE), also referred to as the Welcome to Medicare Visit
- Annual Wellness Visit
 - Initial
 - Subsequent

Even though these services have been covered for several years, physicians continue to have questions about who is eligible for a Medicare-covered visit, what services are included in the visit, who can perform the visit, etc. Given all the questions surrounding these visits, we were asked to provide information about each visit.

Medicare Part B Eligibility

While Medicare Part A is typically premium-free to anyone eligible for Social Security or railroad retirement benefits or anyone who would be eligible for such benefits if the worker's quarters of coverage (QC) from government employment were regular Social Security QCs, Medicare Part B is voluntary, and a beneficiary may refuse enrollment because the beneficiary is required to pay a premium for the coverage.

Depending on the beneficiary's circumstances, e.g., continues active employment and is covered under the employer's group health insurance, a beneficiary may choose to delay enrollment in Medicare.

The effective dates for Parts A and B are noted on the beneficiary's Medicare card. This information is also included on CMS Secure Net Access Portal (C-SNAP), the Wisconsin Physician Services (WPS) eligibility, patient information and claims data.

Coverage for the IPPE and AWW

All new Medicare beneficiaries who are within the first 12 months of their first Medicare Part B coverage period may get an IPPE. Thus, if a beneficiary enrolled in Medicare in June 2013, the Welcome Visit must be performed no later than May 31, 2014. This is a one-time benefit.

Medicare covers an AWW for beneficiaries who

- Are not in the first 12 months of their first Part B coverage period
- Have not received an IPPE or AWW within the past 12 months

At least 11 months have passed following the month in which the IPPE or the last AWW was performed and billed to Medicare.

Medicare pays for only one initial AWW per beneficiary per lifetime and pays for one subsequent AWW per year thereafter.

Members can access C-SNAP to confirm the date when the patient is eligible for their next AWW.

The IPPE is meant to be an introduction to Medicare and covered benefits. The intent of the both visits is to help Medicare beneficiaries stay well. Physicians should focus on health promotion and disease prevention and detection.

Joy's first recommendation is to always use the term "visit." Never refer to these preventive visits as an "examination."

Deductible and Coinsurance/Copayment

Medicare waives both the co-insurance/co-payment and the Medicare Part B deductible for the IPPE and AWW. Thus, the patient has no out-of-pocket expense for these services

Who May Perform the Preventive Visit?

IPPE

Either a physician (a doctor of medicine or osteopathy) or a qualified nonphysician practitioner (a physician assistant, a nurse practitioner or a certified clinical nurse specialist) must furnish the IPPE.

The provider performing the IPPE must be shown as the billing provider on the claim (Item 24j or its electronic equivalent). Services performed by a qualified nonphysician practitioner cannot be billed by the supervising/collaborative physician because "Incident to" rules are not applicable.

AWV

A health professional can perform the IPPE. For purposes of the AWW, this term includes:

- A physician (a doctor of medicine or osteopathy)
- A qualified nonphysician practitioner (a physician assistant, a nurse practitioner or a certified clinical nurse specialist)
- A medical professional (including a health educator, a registered dietitian, a nutrition professional or another licensed practitioner), or a team of such medical professionals who are working under the direct supervision of a physician (physician must be physically present in the office, but is not required to have a face-to-face encounter unless the physician is practicing in a Rural Health Clinic)
