That's my Job?: Essential Duties of a Chapter President Cardinal Creek
Congratulations! You are chapter president! Now what? In this session, participants will identify the essential duties of a chapter president. Participants will learn how to prioritize those responsibilities. Additionally, presidents will make a plan to effectively utilize the executive board to meet the various expectations of leading a chapter.
Recommended for chapter presidents
Presented by Chapter Advisor, John Duraj

Managing and Leading: The Role of the Vice President White River 1
The vice president role has many components. In addition to being the president's right-hand man, the vice president also has to lead and manage the administrative board. This session will explore the essential elements of the vice president position and help vice presidents identify times they can be a leader and times they need to be a manager.
Recommended for vice presidents
Presented by Former Chapter Leadership Consultant, Jeremy Vanscoy

The Ins & Outs of the Treasurer Role Shafer Hall
The role of the treasurer is extremely important to the success of the chapter and has many duties and responsibilities. Learn how to get it done with ease and success. This session will be the first of a three-part series. In the first hour, you will focus on the administrative tasks a treasurer must complete.
Recommended for treasurers and assistant treasurers
Presented by Director of Business Affairs, Alan Selking

Building the Foundation: Why we Recruit

Prairie Creek 2/3

The first in a three-part series designed for recruitment chairmen, this session will focus on the elements of a strong recruitment including why we recruit and who we recruit. This session will help chapters create a foundation for an effective recruitment strategy.

Recommended for recruitment chairmen and all undergraduate members

Presented by Former Chapter Leadership Consultant, Alex Linton

Director of Risk Management Training

White River 2

The Member Responsibility Guidelines (MRG), campus policies, insurance, etc. is a lot for the director of risk management to know. While the knowledge is important you have to also know how to manage events. This session will overview the role of the director of risk management and highlight other programming that will be important for you to attend throughout the conference.

Recommended for directors of risk management and all undergraduate members

Presented by Division Vice President, Scott Sinner

Introduction to The Road: Journey to Excellence

Prairie Creek 1

This session will introduce attendees to The Road: The Journey to Excellence, the Fraternity's member education program. Attendees will be able to articulate each of the four sections of The Road, navigate deltroad.org, and be able to identify and utilize the resources on the website.

Recommended for directors of member development and all undergraduate members

Presented by Associate Director of Student Activities, Jen Pelletier

Alumni & Volunteer Town Hall

Educational Session #2

President Roundtables

Cardinal Creek

A chapter president can often feel like he is on his own trying to manage all aspects of the chapter. In reality, many chapter presidents are dealing with the same challenges and opportunities. In this session, chapter presidents can talk with each other about the major issues facing their chapter and utilize others' experiences to develop a plan of action for responding to the needs of their own chapter.

Recommended for chapter presidents

Presented by Chapter Advisor, Jon Duraj

Running an Effective Administrative Board

White River 1

Overseeing the administrative board is a major responsibility for the vice president. This session will take a deeper dive into the administrative board and the vice president's role in keeping it moving. During this session, attendees will explore meeting management, goal-setting, creating committees to support the work of the administrative board.

Recommended for vice presidents

Presented by Former Chapter Leadership Consultant, Jeremy Vanscoy

Give me Budgets or Give Me Ineffective Fiscal Management: Creating and Maintaining Chapter Budgets

Shafer Hall

No matter what industry you enter after graduation, it will operate off organizational budgets. Utilize your chapter's budget as an opportunity to gain experience creating and working within a financial plan. This session will focus on not only identifying the best way to create your chapter's annual budget but also how to stay current with the budget and utilize it throughout the school year.

Recommended for treasurers and assistant treasurers

Presented by Director of Business Affairs, Alan Selking

Engaging All Members in the Recruitment Process

Prairie Creek 2/3

Now that we know the why and the who of the recruitment process, it is time to figure out the how. The second in a three-part recruitment series, this session will focus on how we recruit members, including how to get the entire chapter engaged in the recruitment process.

Recommended for recruitment chairmen and all undergraduate members

Presented by Former Chapter Leadership Consultant, Alex Linton

Planning Social Events

White River 2

Alcohol can pose quite a risk to chapters. Officers must be prepared to confront issues with alcohol, discuss alcohol with members and effectively plan events with alcohol. This session will cover these topics and will allow officers to consider how alcohol affects chapter members and programming.

Recommended for directors of risk management and all undergraduate members

Presented by Division Vice President, Scott Sinner

Planning a year-long member development calendar

Prairie Creek 1

This session will help attendees learn to plan a year-long member development calendar. Attendees will utilize the FAAR as well as resources on deltrroad.org to plan programs that meet the chapters goals for member development while also providing meaningful and interesting programs for members.

Recommended for directors of member development, and all undergraduate members

Educational Session #3

Strategic Planning for Your Chapter

One of the most difficult aspects of being a leader is creating a vision for your team and helping them move to that goal. In this session, chapter presidents will learn how to develop SMART goals for their chapter and begin the process of goal-setting for their term.

Recommended for chapter presidents

Presented by Chapter Advisor, Jon Duraj

Cardinal Creek

Ethical Decision-Making

As an officer, you will be asked to make decisions every day. Some of those decisions will impact just a few of your brothers, and some of those decisions will impact your entire chapter. Sometimes the decisions you make might benefit some people while hurting others. So how do you decide what to do? This session will explore how to utilize ethics and values in your decision-making as a chapter officer.

Beyond the Basics: Managing A/R and Effective Finance Committees

One of the most time-consuming aspects of the treasurer's job is collecting money from delinquent members. This can cause a lot of frustration for the treasurer, but there are ways to relieve the pain. This one-hour session will focus on the Fraternity's best practices for lowering the chapter's A/R and show how the finance committee can be utilized to relieve stress from the treasurer.

Developing Your Recruitment Tool-kit

Prairie Creek 2/3

The final program in the three-part recruitment series will take the questions we answered in the first session (Why do we recruit? Who do we recruit? How do we recruit?) and bring them together to create a comprehensive recruitment process for your chapter. Attendees will examine the tools and strategies they can implement in their chapter to have an effective recruitment plan that extends beyond the formal recruitment process on their campus.

Recommended for recruitment chairmen and all undergraduate members

Presented by Former Chapter Leadership Consultant, Alex Linton

Hazing: Core Concepts & Intervention Strategies

White River 2

If there were hazing activities happening in your chapter right now, would you be able to intervene and stop them? Would you be able to challenge your members to stop if they were hazing other members? Do you want to be a hero and stop a tragedy from occurring? If you answered "yes" to any of these, then you should join this session where participants will learn about the current state of hazing, develop tools to identify hazing practices and work with other Delts to discuss best ways to prevent hazing in a chapter.

Recommended for directors of risk management and all undergraduate members

Presented by Division Vice President, Scott Sinner

Let's Talk about New Member Education

Prairie Creek 1

Do you have opinions on new member education? We want to hear them! This session will give the opportunity for attendees to provide much needed thoughts on feedback on new member education, including what works well and how it can be improved. Attendees will also have the opportunity to share best practices in their own chapters. Be prepared to share ideas and take some new ones' home.

Recommended for directors of member development, new member educators and all undergraduate members

Presented by Associate Director of Student Activities, Jen Pelletier

What is the Advisor Development Plan?

Hackley Reserve

The Advisor Development Program is a new initiative to better support and assist chapter advisors in their essential roles as undergraduate mentors. Designed by current Delt volunteers, the program strengthens the supportive relationship between division vice presidents by providing a framework for engaging in focused and constructive conversations to help advisors in further developing their mentoring skills. This session provides an overview of the Advisor Development Program and explores how it encourages advisors to develop their own goals for helping their chapters toward achieving excellence.

Leadership Styles 101

White River 1

In order to be a successful chapter leader, we need to know what makes us tick. As individuals, we all have preferred leadership styles and we will inevitably work with other leaders in our chapters, on campus, and in our communities. We must have a good understanding of our own leadership styles, as well as foundational knowledge of the leadership styles of others. This session will allow attendees to identify their personal leadership style, it's strengths and challenges, and the leadership styles of others they may work with on a regular basis.
