

ANDERSON PUBLIC LIBRARY COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT POLICY

The purpose of this Collection Development Policy is to help provide the highest quality service to the customers of the Anderson Public Library system in accordance with the mission and goals of the system. The service will be provided through the offering of a well-selected and well-maintained collection of library materials in a variety of formats and delivery methods.

Selection of Library Materials

Final responsibility and authority for the selection and maintenance of library materials rests with the Library Director acting within the framework of the policies of the Board of Trustees. Selection of specific materials is delegated to appropriate staff at the discretion of the Library Director. The Library also receives, welcomes, and evaluates suggestions for library materials from the community.

Anderson Public Library is dedicated to protecting every individual's right to read, investigate, learn, think, and form an opinion. As such, in selecting materials, the Library does not promote any particular belief or moral code. The Library's policy is to provide a diverse, equitable, and inclusive collection that meets the informational, recreational, and cultural needs of everyone in the community. The Library Board supports the Library's effort to provide equal, open access to all materials. The Library endorses the American Library Association's (ALA) Library Bill of Rights as enumerated on the ALA's website, www.ala.org.

Selection Tools

Selection of materials is accomplished from book reviews and descriptions in professional library and popular journals and magazines, subject bibliographies, annual lists of recommended titles, weekly and monthly best seller lists, publisher and supplier catalogs, and customer requests. Some of the standard selection tools available to staff include, but are not limited to: Library Journal, Booklist, Publishers Weekly, School Library Journal, Horn Book, VOYA, Video Librarian, AALBC.com, Goodreads, and AudioFile.

Circulating Materials (Adult, Teen, and Children's)

Inclusions:

Criteria for inclusion of library materials include the following:

1. Present and potential relevance to community needs.
2. Timeliness and permanence of the material.
3. Quality of writing, design, illustration, or production.
4. Reputation of the publisher or producer, authority and significance of the author, composer, filmmaker, etc.
5. Scope and accuracy of the content of the material.
6. Potential and/or known demand for or interest in the material.
7. Relative importance in comparison with existing materials in the collection on the same subject.
8. Suitability of the subject, style, and level for the intended audience.
9. Attention of critics, reviewers, staff members, and/or the public.
10. Suitability of the physical format for circulation.
11. Price and/or budget availability.
12. The variety of formats collected include, but are not limited to:
 - a. Print: books, documents, magazines, newspapers, and maps.

- b. Audiovisual Media: videos on DVD and Blu-ray, books on CD and Playaway, music on CD.
- c. Digital & Electronic Resources: databases, eBooks, digital audiobooks, downloadable or streaming videos and music.
- d. Kits

Exclusions:

Unless there is a compelling reason for inclusion, items meeting the following criteria will be excluded from purchase.

1. Out of print or otherwise unavailable items.
2. Titles determined to be cost prohibitive.
3. Items published more than ten years previous.
4. Self-published titles.
5. Out-of-date formats such as cassettes and VHS.

Labeling of Library Materials

Controversial library materials will not be marked or identified by Library staff to show approval or disapproval of the contents, and no item is controlled except for the express purpose of protecting it from damage or theft following the Labeling and Rating Systems (Appendix F) of the American Library Association.

Maintaining the Collection

An up-to-date, attractive, and useful circulating collection is maintained by retaining or replacing essential materials and withdrawing, on a systematic and continuous basis, those works that are outdated, in poor condition, of little historical significance, or are no longer in demand.

After withdrawn materials have been processed, Library staff will redistribute materials in the following ways:

1. Friends of the Library – Materials in good condition and suitable for resale.
2. Digitization – Materials in fair condition, have historical significance, and are legally suitable for digitization.
3. Recycling – Materials in poor condition, or containing out of date information

Indiana Room

The Indiana Room attempts to maintain a good, high quality collection of local history materials. This includes materials available on the history of Madison County and surrounding counties and major and local works relating to Madison County genealogy.

The Library is the chief repository of information on Madison County and Anderson and will therefore purchase or actively solicit donations of materials pertaining to Madison County. Items that are both hard to store and of marginal historical value may be refused. The Library will also purchase or solicit donations of select materials pertaining to Madison County life and biographies of notable Madison County residents or natives. In addition, the Indiana Room will gladly receive donations of materials pertaining to Madison County's Indigenous Peoples, American history (especially the frontier and westward migration) as it relates to Madison County, and U.S. military history-as it relates to Madison County.

Inclusions:

1. County, regional, and select general state histories, county vital records, military and military pension records, court records, obituary records, funeral home records, passenger/immigration records, church records, journals, yearbooks, bibliographies, cemetery records, atlases and plat maps, research methodology guides, genealogies, name dictionaries, gazetteers, and heraldic works.
2. Madison County newspapers available on microfilm/fiche.
3. Maps of local and historic significance. Maps should contain enough detail to assist researchers in determining county boundary changes, location of extant and non-extant towns, settlements, and migration patterns, etc.
4. Current local yearbooks and retrospective local yearbooks. The Library will also accept donations of additional copies of local yearbooks and those from Indiana universities.
5. Genealogy and history periodicals which meet the selection criteria above. The Library will accept donations of periodicals only if they were published in Madison County or are Madison County-related.
6. Newspaper articles, magazine articles, brochures, programs, photographs, and other unbound information as it relates to Madison County are included in the vertical file collection.
7. Select available materials by local authors.
8. Photographs and postcards of local buildings and personalities.
9. Photocopies of very rare works deemed necessary to the collection. Many types of historical works have been out of print for decades. The only method of acquiring the material is to borrow and photocopy them. Photocopying will only be done when the item's copyright has expired or if permission has been received from the author or copyright holder to reproduce the work.

Exclusions:

1. Cumulative works on Indiana Laws.
2. The Library does not purchase family histories except in cases of exceptional local interest. The Library will accept donations of these materials. Short and/or unbound items will be kept in the Indiana Room's vertical file.
3. Rare books, unless the title has significant value as a reference item. (Exceptions may be made for local history-related items).
4. Multiple copies of items already in the collection. (Exceptions may be made for local history-related items deemed scarce.)
5. Boxes or sacks of papers with no apparent order, including unorganized family records.
6. Photographs of unidentified persons.
7. Family Bibles; when a Bible is offered, copies of the family information may be made.
8. Phonebooks or school yearbooks from locations outside Madison County.
9. Artifacts (Exceptions may be made for local history-related items).
10. CD-ROMs, DVD, VHS, or other video formats (Exceptions may be made for local history-related items).
11. Any physical material that is also fully searchable and viewable on the Internet.

Selection Tools:

Most traditional library selection sources are of help in finding only general items which pertain to the department's collection. Library staff will actively scan genealogy and history journals and websites for book reviews and advertisements. The Indiana Room will also actively solicit flyers from pertinent publishers.

Maintaining the Indiana Room Collection:

Local history and genealogy materials are withdrawn if they are superseded by a more recent edition, found to contain material that is overwhelmingly inaccurate, or in such poor condition that repair is not cost effective. Unique items that are in disrepair will be preserved by whatever means necessary, including binding, rebinding, encapsulation, microfilming, photocopying, or digitization.

Digitization and Digital Preservation

The Anderson Public Library is committed to the digital conversion, preservation, storage, and maintenance of unique and historically significant materials in our Indiana Room Collection and making these items freely accessible online in accordance with the "Inclusions" criteria listed above.

The Library recognizes the importance of ensuring that digitized content in the Indiana Room Collection is available to current and future users through the development and implementation of preservation and maintenance strategies that minimize the effects of advances in information technology, and ensure the authenticity, security, and accessibility of its contents. Procedures and guidelines that adhere to widely accepted models and standards for long-term maintenance and preservation of materials will be used.

The Information Services Manager is responsible for ensuring that digital preservation strategies and procedures are compatible with other policies, strategies, and procedures in the Library. The Information Services Manager is responsible for the implementation, management, and auditing of the preservation of digital objects, as well as supervising the preservation of digital objects, and advising Indiana Room staff on acceptable digital formats. The Collection Services Manager will assist in metadata creation as needed.

Guidelines and procedures for the preservation of the digital content of the Indiana Room Collection will be reviewed and updated on a regular basis to ensure the ongoing accessibility of digital content as technology changes or new requirements are identified.

Gifts

The Library accepts gifts of materials but reserves the right to evaluate and dispose of them in accordance with the criteria applied to purchased materials. As a general rule, the Library does not accept artifacts. The Library retains the authority to accept or reject gifts and to make all decisions as to their use, housing, and final disposition. Gifts which are not consistent with the Library's objectives and policies will be given to the Friends of the Anderson Public Library.

Use of Library Materials

The Library is dedicated to providing materials for everyone in the community to use. The Library Bill of Rights and Access to Library Resources and Services for Minors (Appendix G) of the American Library Association states that the rights of an individual to the use of a library should not be denied or abridged because of age, race, religious beliefs, sexual orientation, national origin, socioeconomic or education level, or social or political views.

The responsibility for reading, listening to, viewing and using library materials and equipment by minors rests with parents or legal guardians.

Reconsideration of Library Materials

Customers may request the reconsideration of an item or resource. Procedures have been established which ensure the serious review of a customer's request for reconsideration. Until a decision is reached, the item or resource will remain in the collection. Frankness of language and/or graphic content is not considered sufficient justification in itself to remove or restrict items or resources. Titles with viewpoints or content deemed objectionable by a customer are judged as entire works, not on isolated passages or sections.

Review

This policy will be reviewed periodically to ensure that it is responsive to the changing needs of the Library system and the general community.
