LJC TO OFFER YOUTH LEADERSHIP ACADEMY IN 2019-2020

Leadership Johnson County will begin offering a Youth Leadership Academy in the 2019-2020 school year to bring together students from across the county in an experiential learning community. The program, based off the collaboration model used in the LJC Signature Program, will focus on students developing a better understanding of their local community, increased project-management skills, enhanced leadership skills, and more self-awareness. Each student will also participate in a community project.

Applications for the program will become available in mid-February. For more information, visit our website at leadershipjohnsoncounty.org or call Tandy Shuck at 317-738-8264.

Seed money for this program was granted by the Duke Energy Foundation and the Johnson County Community Foundation. We are grateful for these partnerships and excited to see this new program blossom.

Where in the world is ???

Tiffany Wilson ('18) is one busy graduate! When she isn't acting or directing in local theatre, or working as the Franklin branch manager of the Johnson County Library, she is traveling to Hungary and learning to speaK Hungarian! Check it out.

I have had the amazing opportunity to travel to Budapest, Hungary five different times. I attend Hope's Point Baptist Church in Shelbyville, and our nonprofit organization, Mission 19:14 (based on Matthew 19:14) has lead a mission trip to Hungary every year since 2012. We work with kids and young adults, ages 10-21, who are foster kids or orphans, and many of them are of Roma descent. These kids are often "thrown away" by their culture and society, and do not have strong adult role models to look up to. Every single kid can share stories of how they have been abused—often by family members, friends, or foster parents. Many times they will quit school because of the likelihood they will be prejudiced against when searching for a job later in life. They often resort to selling drugs or becoming involved in prostitution in order to make money.

After falling in the love with the country and its people, I've been learning to speak the language. Hungarians love it if you even attempt to speak the language, because no one speaks Hungarian except Hungarians. I've been using Transparent Language through the Johnson County Public Library to learn a foreign language and so can you!

“The Founding of the Nation Through the Eyes of the Enslaved”

Thursday, Oct. 25, 2018 | 7:00 p.m.

Franklin College | Spurlock Center Gymnasium

Erica Armstrong Dunbar, Ph.D., is the Charles and Mary Beard Professor of History at Rutgers University. Her publications, teaching and documentary appearances have placed her among a small number of African-American women scholars who study black life, culture and gender up to the Civil War.

When George Washington was elected president, he reluctantly left behind his beloved Mount Vernon to serve in New York and then Philadelphia, the temporary seat of the nation’s capital. In setting up his household, he brought along nine slaves, including Ona Judge.

Though Ona Judge lived a life of relative comfort, she was denied freedom. So, when the opportunity presented itself one spring day in Philadelphia, Judge left everything she knew to escape to New England. Yet freedom would not come without its costs. At age 22, Judge became the subject of an intense manhunt led by Washington, who used his political and personal contacts to try and recapture his property.

The convocation will focus on Dunbar’s book, Never Caught: The Washingtons’ Relentless Pursuit of Their Runaway Slave, Ona Judge.
