RESIDENTIAL SERVICES

The main goal of Stone Belt's residential programs is to learn the things that allow a client to live independently in the home. Stone Belt teaches clients how to shop, cook, clean, take care of things, make friends and utilize the community.

supported living

Our Supported Living program is growing daily as clients and families are selecting this more independent lifestyle. This program offers many options for maintaining a living arrangement that the client chooses, including having his or her own apartment or living with family and receiving respite services. The services provided, based on individual needs, range from staff visits only a few hours per week to 24-hour live-in or shifted staff.

group home living

Stone Belt has 11 group homes in Monroe and Lawrence counties. Each home provides a 24-hour staffed environment serving up to seven clients. In Supervised Group Living there is on-going training in daily living skills and access to professional staff including nurses, social workers, dieticians and other program coordinators.
