Was your child supposed to have his/her IEP annual case review (ACR) meeting this spring? Know this:

- Indiana schools must conduct each student's ACR meeting, even when utilizing remote learning.
- Contact your child's principal and teacher-of-record if the ACR meeting hasn't occurred this school year and isn't yet scheduled.
- ACR meetings may occur via phone, video, or other virtual means.
- At the meeting, decide how your child will receive special education services during future remote learning situations. Include this in his/her IEP. Things to consider:
 - Decide what's currently working with remote learning and what's not.
 - Specify how will your child access his/her curriculum during remote learning.
 - Note how your child's progress be monitored during remote learning.
 - Include any assistive technology your child might need during remote learning.
- For details about ACR meetings and other COVID-19 special education information, see "Special Education / Service Delivery During COVID-19 Closures and eLearning Days Frequently Asked Questions" from the Indiana Department of Education:
